

REMARKS

The specification and claim 3 have been amended to even more distinctly claim applicants' invention. The specification has been amended at page 72 to remove an obvious typographical error. This error can be readily seen by reviewing the last line of page 71, i.e., line 23, which states that this compound is a "dihydrochloride". As for claim 3, it was inadvertently made dependent from claim 1. It should be an independent claim, as now shown.

Applicants do not believe that a fee is due because of the filing of this Preliminary Amendment. If a fee is due, however, please deduct that fee from our Account No. 50-1561.
